

WINE LIST

SPRING 2024

NOTE FROM THE WINE DIRECTOR

---

The following pages reflect the melting pot of New York City, drawing inspiration from diverse regions and esteemed producers. This list pays homage to classics while showcasing the rise of talented vintners from lesser-known, yet captivating, corners.

Wine has been a big part of my life ever since growing up in Northern California. From my experience over the years, I've learned to have fun with wine and the adventure it takes you on through different tastes, landscapes, and the history it reflects.

Be open-minded and let us take you on a journey...

Contrées is a project by Champagne producers Oliver Horiot, Elise Dechannes and Arnaud Lamoureux to showcase the different terroirs of Les Riceys. These are all different lieux-dit expressions, however they all come from the 2011 vintage, made from Pinot Noir, non-dosage (Brut Nature), vinified/bottled/disgorged the same dates, and bottle aged for 4 years. *I recommend drinking these side by side*

Vinupetra by Salvo Foti aka I Vigneri made me fall in love with Volcanic wines back in 2012. 'Vinupetra' is your gateway. The 'Vinupetra Viti Centenaire' wine comes from vines that are planted in franc de pied that Salvo estimates are over 250 years old. He believes these are the oldest active vines in all of Etna.

'Las Umbrias' - the most delicate and floral of the vineyards. Planted in primarily granite soils with some small patches of clay

'Las Iruelas' - muscular Garnacha from a plot of 60+ year old vines in their most complex soils of granite, slate, schist, and quartz with patches of clay

'El Tamboril' - their limited single-vineyard of 70+ year old vines planted on a north-facing slope of pure granitic soils

'Tumba del Rey Moro' - a wild vineyard resembling an ancient landslide with several small natural terraces irregularly planted with vines. Granitic, sandy soils with more pinker-hued granite and quartz.

'Rumbo al Norte' - most profound of the single parcel wines. Comes from a 0.3 hectare plot of mixed Garnacha vines planted around gigantic boulders on sandy and silty mountain soils. This is their "Grand Cru"

Javi Revert was born and raised near La Font de la Figuera at the western edge of Valencia. Javi started recovering old vines of indigenous varieties from vineyards including one that Javi's great-grandfather had planted in 1948! This inspired him to focus solely on vineyards around his hometown, featuring rare, heritage varieties like Arcos, which once was widely planted in Valencia before phylloxera.
